Dear Dave — thanks very much for taking the trouble to send me the book. [redacted] to cover the cost of the postage I'm enclosing a dollar, ~~pals~~ plus a 20¢ postage stamp. This leaves 11¢ beyond the postage, which you may keep as compensation for the trouble you went ~~to~~ to in sending the book. Please don't protest — I realize that 11¢ may seem exhorbitant, but I really want you to have it. I'm enclosing something that I was going to send to Hoken, ~~but~~ but which I refrained from sending when I got your letter — I got it just in time to prevent me from ~~Hoken~~ sending it. I assume they would consider this an inopportune time for ~~the~~ levity. If you like, you can pass it on to Hoken some time when you think he is again prepared to take a Cheerful View of things — Ted. OVER→

P.S. You will ~~not~~ not fail to notice who is commemorated on the stamp I'm enclosing — a distinguished ~~am~~ American whose greatness undoubtedly entitles her to this honor.

The vulgar mob will of course have missed the significance of the enclosed advertisement; yet to philosophers the arrival on earth of the person depicted here is news of the greatest moment.

"I love all those who are as heavy drops, falling one by one out of the dark cloud that hangs over men: they herald the advent of lightening, and, as heralds, they perish.

"Behold, I am a herald of the lightening and a heavy drop from the cloud; but this lightening is called Overman."

— Nietzsche, Zarathustra, Zarathustra's Prologue, 4.
